

Lancôme Colour Studio

Schematic Design Study
Fly-thru

Wolford

Schematic Design Study

CASE STUDIES

"Our mission as architects is to get our minds and vision around all aspects of a project - structure, space, program and image - to create an integrated system of form and expression."

--- Kenne Shepherd

This mission guides our creative process from concept thru completion. Throughout the design process, we embrace and use a rich interplay of places, colors, textures, and images that inspire us to create a dynamic, yet highly measured response to our client's requirements.

Our firm uses a broad range of techniques and media to engage our client throughout a project's development, as well as to study, test and visualize the quality of the built environment that we will bring into the realm of public experience.

The two case studies on the left, which are recently completed prototypes for Wolford and Lancôme, demonstrate the vitality of our approach and the depth of visual understanding that can be achieved through collage, interior fly throughs and 3-D modeling.

